

It's raining!

Some of us don't like the rain. But there are many ways you can enjoy the rain. Why not try one of these the next time it rains.

Most of us have jumped in puddles. If not, try it!

Make some mud art. Dip a long stick in and draw on the pavement.

Go on a bug walk after it has rained.

I think you will see many more snails, slugs and worms!

If it is not too cold and you are feeling brave, take off your shoes and feel the squelch of mud and grass on your feet.

Make an outdoor orchestra. Arrange pots, pans and bowls made from different materials outside in the rain. Listen to the sound as the rain falls on them.

Sit quietly and listen to the rain. What do you smell? What does the rain feel like on your face? What different noises does the rain make when it falls on trees, the ground, a roof, your jacket? Take a moment to slow down and enjoy the rain.

Make a mud sculpture. Sticks, stones, flowers and leaves make great decorations.

Rain guessing game. Get everyone in the class or at home to guess how much rain there will be. Put a cup out and see who is closest when the rain stops.

Remember!

Put out clean clothes and a towel inside so you can get warm and dry quickly. Come inside if there is a storm.
